Sanjiv Malhotra, PhD, is the Director of the Clean Energy Investment Center (CEIC) at the United States Department of Energy (DOE). As Director, Dr. Malhotra oversees the center that serves as a single point of contact for investors to access technical experts, acquire the latest reports on clean energy technology, and identify promising projects. He is also instrumental in supporting Mission Innovation, an initiative to dramatically accelerate public and private global clean energy innovation to address global climate change, provide affordable clean energy to consumers, including in the developing world, and create additional commercial opportunities in clean energy. Dr. Malhotra joined CEIC after most recently serving as a consultant with the Department’s Fuel Cells Technologies Office. Previously, from 2005-2014, he served as the founder, President, and CEO of Oorja Protonics, a global leader in the design, development, and manufacturing of methanol fuel cells. Over the course of his diverse career, he has been an advisor at Kleiner Perkins Caufield and Byers, served as part of the executive management team at DCH Technology and H Power Corp, and worked as a researcher at DOE’s Lawrence Berkley National Laboratory. Dr. Malhotra holds a bachelor’s degree in chemical engineering from the Indian Institute of Technology, and he holds a master’s degree in business administration and a doctoral degree in chemical and biochemical engineering from the University of Iowa.
